

A new, on-site, smartphone-accessible social-history trail enables visitors to explore Bath's Victorian and Edwardian past using 12 audio-video clips which tell fascinating tales of those buried here, including the composer of Danny Boy; how Pickwick Papers came to be so named, and the man who revealed the Roman Baths to an astonished world

---

The information board explains how to explore our Social History Trail, showing 12 locations where a Smartphone can be used to call up a short video clip that tells a fascinating tale of Bath's past.

Scan this QR code now to link to the video of Major Davis and learn of his controversial role as City architect and his excavation of the Roman Baths.